AWARDS, SCHOLARSHIPS, AND FELLOWSHIPS

Architectural Journalism Awards

To encourage and give recognition to published work that will further public understanding of architecture and the architect, architectural journalism awards were initiated in 1953.

Specific information is available from the AIA Department of Public and Professional Relations.

School Medal Award

The School Medal, given annually in schools of architecture accredited by the National Architectural Accrediting Board, is awarded to a senior student in recognition of scholastic achievement, character, and promise of professional ability. The award is made possible through an endowment fund provided by the executors and heirs of the Henry Adams Estate.

Each student so honored receives, in addition to the engraved silver medal, a copy of Henry Adams' book, "Mont St. Michel and Chartres."

Henry Adams Fellowship

To encourage and stimulate study in medieval architecture, funds from the Henry Adams endowment are available at certain intervals for a fellowship. The Fellowship is awarded generally only when it is felt that there is an impending important contribution to professional knowledge.

Application should include a detailed statement of the contemplated program of advanced studies and its relationship to the stated purposes of this fellowship and be addressed to the Chairman of the AIA Committee on Awards and Scholarships.

Delano and Aldrich Fellowship

Williams A. Delano and Chester H. Aldrich, distinguished American Architects, on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their partnership, established an endowment fund, the net income of which provides a traveling fellowship for a French architect, sculptor, painter, or student in one or more of these arts so that he may travel in the United States to learn first-hand about our architecture and arts. If no French candidate is available, the award may be made to other nationals. The amount of the grant is usually $1,200.

Application for this fellowship should be made directly to the Chairman of the French Committee on the Delano and Aldrich Fellowship, 6 Rue Jules Chaplain, Paris, France.

Edward Langley Scholarships

The Edward Langley Scholarships, made possible through the generosity of the distinguished architect of Scranton, Pennsylvania, through a provision in his will establishing an endowment fund to be administered by the American Institute of Architects to aid United States and Canadian students of architecture, may be awarded for undergraduate or graduate work. Typical grants range in amounts from under $1,000 to approximately $2,000.

Application for a Langley Scholarship should be made by April 15 to the Awards and Scholarship Committee, AIA, through its regional member or the appropriate Regional Director of The Institute, by the department head of any member school of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture. The Royal Institute of Canadian Architects designates Canadian candidates.

Milton B. Medary Scholarship

The Georgia Marble Company, as a memorial to Milton B. Medary, distinguished American architect, established an endowment fund in the late 1930's, the income of which is used to provide aid to graduate students who have previously received the School Medal of the Institute. The amount of the award (usually $200-400) is determined by both the need of the applicant and available income.

Applications should be made directly to the Committee on Awards and Scholarships, setting forth the purpose and program for the contemplated work, to be received not later than April 15.

Rehmann Scholarships

The late Antoinette Perrett, in memory of Carl F. and Marie J. Rehmann, provided scholarship and fellowship funds for architectural students and architects, to be used for aid in travel in the United States and abroad, for research, and for aid to artists and craftsmen who are pursuing their arts with an architectural point of view or purpose.

Applications for a Rehmann Scholarship should be made to the Committee on Awards and Scholarships not later than April 15.

Arnold W. Brunner Fellowship

The New York Chapter of The American Institute of Architects awards the Brunner Fellowship annually for advanced study in a specialized field of architectural investigation. Usually an award of up to $2,400 is available. Candidates must be American Citizens with advanced professional backgrounds and must be currently active in architecture or related fields.

Application for a Brunner Fellowship should be made to the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, 115 East 40th Street, New York City, by November 15.

National Fire Underwriters Scholarships

The National Board of Fire Underwriters, by an annual gift to the American Architectural Foundation, has established National Fire Underwriters Scholarships to aid students in their study of architecture. The awards are made to students in need of financial assistance who are attending collegiate schools of architecture in the United States.

Applications should be made to the Committee on Awards and Scholarships not later than April 15.
