Received
June 17

Word was received Tuesday, June 17th, 1930, of the death at Monrovia, California, of Carl E Howell, well known Architect of the firm of Howell & Thomas.

Mr Howell had been in failing health for more than two years and had given up active work in Cleveland for the climate of New Mexico and California. He had been in California only two months.

He was a Life Member of the Museum of Art, a member of the Chamber of Commerce, the University, Mid-day Clubs of Cleveland, the University of Pennsylvania Club of New York, and the Athletic, Rocky Fork and Columbus Clubs of Columbus, Ohio. He was also a member of the American Institute of Architects and the American Academy of Rome.

Mr Howell was born in Columbus in 1879, the son of Robert and Elizabeth Howell, was educated at Ohio State University and at the University of Pennsylvania. While at Pennsylvania, he won several scholarships and membership in Sigma Xi, honorary scientific fraternity. He was also awarded the John Stewardson foreign traveling scholarship in architecture and after his return, entered the practice of architecture with J.W. Thomas in Columbus, in 1908.

In addition to having a national reputation in house architecture, outstanding examples of the work of Howell & Thomas, include the Library and Auditorium Buildings for Ohio University at Athens, Ohio, East High School of Columbus, Ohio, High Schools in Lakewood and Shaker Heights, Ohio, Churches at Columbus, Canton and Oxford, Ohio, Y W C A Buildings at Cleveland and Zanesville.

Another branch of architecture in which they have won national recognition, is the planning and designing of newspaper buildings. Among the most important of these plants are those located in Pittsburgh, Pa., Rochester and Brooklyn, N.Y., New York City, Akron and Cleveland, Ohio, and Houston and Beaumont, Texas.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday, June 24th, from the Schoedinger Mortuary Chapel at Columbus, Ohio, which was designed by Howell & Thomas.
