Dear Mr. Maginnis:

Thank you for your letter of January 29.

While talking to the Edgewater Beach Hotel yesterday, I asked them to make a reservation for you and Mrs. Maginnis. All twin-bedded rooms have been sold, but they said they would reserve for you a suite which has a sitting room and twin-bedded room. They added that they would advise you of this directly, and request your approval.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Past President and Esteemed Fellow:

I was requested by the Board of Directors of the American Institute of Architects, at its Spring Meeting held in Washington, D.C., March 3-6, 1954, to express to you, in behalf of each member of the Board, our profound sympathy in the recent loss of your son.

I think each one of us reverted in his own thoughts to what his feelings would be if he had brought his own son into practice with him and was looking forward to days of lessened personal activity while watching with pride the competence of his own boy and the assurance of the continuation of an esteemed name in the architectural profession and in the community. Certainly these were my thoughts and as a father of such a son, I share the poignancy of your feelings.

Please accept our affectionate regards.

Very sincerely yours,

George Bain Cummings
