ACHIEVEMENT IN DESIGN

Since the end of World War II, Architectural Designers have evidenced lack of restraint or self discipline. In a wild scramble to create something new, appropriate form, proportion and finish have given way to novelty or fashion. The result can be seen all over the country where this lack of discrimination has permitted the use of similar techniques in the design of a school or a factory, a church or a restaurant, an office building or a residence, depending upon what may have been the vogue at the moment. Any total concept of architecture has been lost in this insistence on novelty and little consideration has been given to a valid expression of the purpose of the building.

Zantzinger's contribution to design lies in his insistence on a "Discipline of Design" with the intent of inducing appropriate expression to the exterior and the interior of his buildings. In addition to the "Discipline of Design", he has worked within other disciplines which he considers fundamental to the accomplishment of good architecture. These disciplines can be summarized as follows:

(a) Meticulous care in analyzing the planning requirements of the structure, for buildings actually house methods, flow patterns, and human beings who perform all the varied functions of our sophisticated civilization.

(b) Discipline of Structure - This aspect requires a careful analysis of possible structural systems with due consideration given to the manner in which the structural system should be expressed, and the proportion which may be most satisfactory in order to enhance the beauty of the finished building.

(c) Discipline of Budget - Many clients have sincere budget requirements. Whenever the budget is out of line, Zantzinger has elected to be candid with the owner, but when budget is realistic he has stressed the point of view that the Architect must design within this budget and that adhering to this principle is a basic part of good architecture.

(d) Discipline of Mechanics - Nothing can demean splendid design more quickly than faulty mechanical design and poor accommodation for the mechanical plant. Every effort has been applied to keep mechanical installations simple but adequate, and designed so that the people who must operate the plant do not find it unworkable or difficult to maintain. This important part of any building has received his constant attention.

(e) Discipline of Materials - In a period when the development of new materials and methods excites the imagination of all, Zantzinger insists upon thorough investigation and judicious selection in order to be certain that building products are suitable to the purpose and can be expected to function as intended. All detailing is carried out with this intent. Reared under the precept that it is inadvisable to incorporate any material or method that has not been proven acceptable over at least a twenty-year period, his effort has been to keep abreast of new techniques but to avoid anything that cannot measure up to satisfactory performance standards. This point of view is applied to all specifications and detailing.

These are the precepts underlying his design philosophy and they have been incorporated into the buildings referred to in this application and thruout his architectural practice. The high quality of most of the work of his office cannot always be conveyed thru a photograph but can be documented by a very large group of satisfied clients each of whom is proof of the nominee's contribution to the advancement of the profession.

MORE EFFICIENT METHODS OF HANDLING MATERIALS, PRELIMINARY DRAWINGS AND SPECIFICATIONS - OBLIGATION OF ARCHITECT

1. CONSTRUCTION WORK

Materials Handling & Specifications - Since the nominee has continued to give close personal attention to specifications during his years of practice, the analysis and appropriate use of materials, their adaptation to new design and their proper detail have reached a high level of effectiveness. Specifications have been streamlined and clarified, with the intent of easing the work of General and Subcontractors, thus developing more accurate estimates, reducing "extras", and - significantly - producing the most for the building dollar.

His attention has also been constantly directed to detail. The end result has been satisfactory relations with the owner on one side - Contractors, Materialsmen, and Mechanics on the other. Sound specification writing, backed by intimate knowledge of the performance of materials, their relative costs and advantages, enhances the practical efficiency of the profession and contributes to its advancement.

Attention is directed to specific examples:

(a) Developments in the handling of veneer on frame and masonry construction in residential, light commercial, and one story institutional work.

(b) Study and analysis of the advantages accruing from the use of sheet vinyl and vinyl covered fabrics for hospital wall finish and in other lightly trafficked areas.

(c) Recommendations for the use of good prestressed concrete design for highway structures, while drawing attention to the lack of new development in the fabrication and use of steel in this field since 1926. This point was made to the Steel Industry at a time when it was faced with heavy losses to prestressed concrete. Since that time, new types of steel and steel design are appearing and are being incorporated in more recent design for heavy highway structures.

(d) Examination into and resultant use of prestressed concrete frame for recent Agnes Irwin School. Since prestressed members could also be used as finished surfaces, extensive economies were combined with attractive design features to produce a distinguished building at a price well below average school construction costs.

Office Operation - The nominee has been the director of his firm's operations and developed certain satisfactory techniques.

(a) Development of practical method for the admission of younger men as partners, including profit sharing and retirement plans.

(b) Research into proper forms of insurance coverage by Owner, Architect and General Contractor.

(c) Constant attention to changes in General Conditions, and other "Grandfather" clauses, in order to keep abreast of current changes in phraseology and practice.

(e) Insistence on the use of higher grade materials and methods, in the belief that proper initial capital expenditures, reduces maintenance and replacement costs over a period of years.

NOMINEE'S ACHIEVEMENTS IN SERVICE TO THE INSTITUTE

Corporate Membership 1.1.36

Philadelphia Chapter Activities

1936-39 Chapter Executive Committee

1936-42 Committee on Education - During this period this Committee actively urged the development of Extension Courses at the University of Pennsylvania and the development of instruction in design at Drexel Institute.

1938-42 Implemented the "Mentor System" for assisting graduates to attain fully rounded experience for State examination.

1938 City Charter - Worked on City Charter Committee to establish duties and responsibilities of the office of City Architect, and to insure proper echelon in order for him to be effective.

1939-42 Public Relations - Active member of the Committee on Public Relations to create some system of Public Relations for Architects in the City and State. Recommended that Philadelphia Chapter take active interest in all matters pertaining to the City and the City Plan, and to express firm opinions on all questions of Public interest. Recommended and developed a "Movie" for use in crystalizing in the Public mind the need for City Planning. Personally took pictures and assembled Movie for presentation. Spoke at many group luncheons enlisting support for City Planning.

1940 Chairman of Committee to engage an Executive Secretary for the Chapter to develop Public Relations and coordinate Chapter Activities.

Page 6. Para. 1. Services to the Institute

- 1941-42 Chairman, Architects Committee on Preparedness, concurrently working with Civil Defense Committee as Chief of the City's Camouflage Group. This activity was directed to evaluating camouflage techniques for Metropolitan areas, airports, industrial buildings, etc.
- 1948 Chairman Committee of Public Information - This was a continuation of previous efforts to persuade the Architects to undertake group action to better explain our services to the Public. At the same time, stressed the need for intramural activity within the Chapter in order to insure professional services of consistently high quality.
- 1949 Chairman Committee for the Unification of Building Codes in the area surrounding the City, where some forty different building codes were in effect. Some progress was attained, though the recommendation that the BOCA Code be adopted thruout could not be carried out.
- 1952-55 Chapter Executive Committee - Principal activity was to reconcile certain groups in the Chapter who were anxious to "secede" from the Pennsylvania Society of Architects. Movement stopped and real interest developed in "State" function of the Pennsylvania Society of Architects.
- 1953 Committee on Municipal Developments - Succeeded in developing endorsement for the Delaware Expressway.
- 1955 Chaired a Committee to select and recommend candidates for the position of City Architect. Three Architects expressed interest in this position, and the Committee was successful in having one of these selected by the City to fill the vacancy.
- 1961 Convention Philadelphia - Took charge of all seating arrangements in the Academy of Music for the performance of the Philadelphia Orchestra and made all arrangements for the Buffet Ball afterward.

Pennsylvania Society of Architects

Elected to the Executive Committee to represent Philadelphia Chapter - 1952-55 - 1955-58 - 1961-63.

Zantzinger was elected to the Executive Committee of the Pennsylvania Society of Architects by the Philadelphia Chapter, at a time when the Society was emerging from its infancy. Much depended upon support from the largest sub-chapter - Philadelphia - for the success of the Society, since Philadelphia's numerical strength was important; but Philadelphians were generally unaware of the very strong support the Society could develop at the State level.

This was evidenced by the fact that a substantial element in Philadelphia wished to secede from the State Society. At this juncture Zantzinger was able to persuade dissident elements of the importance of the State function and of the importance to the Society of Philadelphia's support. An influential member of the opposition became so convinced of this point of view that he accepted nomination to the Executive Committee of the Society and - ultimately was elected President.

Executive Secretary - Public Relations

During this same period it was also evident that the Society needed expert and continuous representation in Harrisburg. Zantzinger supported the proposition that an Executive Secretary of ability would be the best asset to Architectural Public Relations in the State. He gave unqualified support to the employment of Jim Peifer, whose effectiveness on behalf of the Architects has been outstanding since he was employed by the Society.

Page 6. Para. 1. Services to the Institute

Intramural Relations

Zantzinger's activities during his term of office with P.S.A. have contributed substantially to the breaking down of artificial barriers between other Chapters in the State and the Philadelphia Chapter.

P.S.A. Annual Forum

This uniquely successful annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Society of Architects has been supported and encouraged by the Nominee in the belief that such a meeting would help to develop a proper type of publicity for Architects, unify and strengthen the profession within the State, keep elected representatives informed of the profession's aims, and develop methods whereby the Architects could help the Producers Council (rather than vice versa).

As evidenced by the record, most of these objectives are being attained and strengthened as Forum activities expand from year to year.

General

It would be impossible to describe in detail the hours of effort that have been given by the nominee to the work of this effective organization, but there is little doubt that his activities have contributed in no small measure to the advancement of the profession in the State of Pennsylvania.

NOMINEE'S ACHIEVEMENT IN PUBLIC SERVICE

1. List the public offices held by the nominee and the positions of trust held by him in recognition of civic leadership, and state clearly his notable work in public service and the particular influence of that work which the nominators believe to be a notable contribution to the advancement of the profession.

- A. Commissioner, Radnor Township, Pa. -
- (a) Chairman Sewer Committee. Proposed overall plan for watershed sewer development including four adjacent townships. Plan as established in 1950 now practically completed. Revised billing procedure so that "users" pay for most of the cost of sewer installation rather than including cost of expansion in General Debt.
 - (b) Stimulated interest on part of industry to come into township. One large area and one small area now practically completed as result of initial direction and stimulus originated by applicant.
 - (c) Developed revised traffic pattern and parking plan for Wayne, mostly completed at this time.
 - (d) Worked on committee which successfully rewrote the Township Zoning Ordinance.
 - (e) Working with others in adjacent Township, almost accomplished adoption of a uniform Building Code for 29 communities thruout Bucks, Montgomery and Delaware County. This project failed only because one of the strongest supporters moved away and petty politics rose to destroy what would have been a most beneficial attainment.
- B. Mayor's Committee on Penn Center: A committee authorized by Mayor to inspire basic concepts of the Penn Center Developer. Nothing could be done with the exterior appearance but many mistakes were prevented and immeasurable improvements made to the basic planning concepts before it was too late.
- C. Citizens Council on City Planning - Director 1952-61 - Secretary 1959.
- D. Board of Trustees, Fairmount Park Art Association - 1955 to date.
- E. Episcopal Hospital, Trustee - 1937 to date.
- F. Charity Ball, Inc., Vice President - 1935 to date.
- G. The Philadelphia Housing Association - 1935-39.
- H. Member of the Board, Family Service of Philadelphia
- I. Member, The Bureau of Municipal Research, Philadelphia
- J. Member of the Health and Welfare Council, Division of the Aging - 1957-59
- K. Governors Conference on the Aging - 1961
- L. Pennsylvania Welfare Forum - 1957, 1958
- M. Chairman Camouflage Section, Phila. Council of Defense, 1941-1942
- N. Annual Giving, Class Chairman - University of Pennsylvania - 1958, 1959, 1960, 1961
- O. United Fund Drive - Chairman Section 10 - 1960
- P. Arbiter for American Arbitration Association - 1957
- Q. Visiting Architectural Advisory Committee M.I.T. - 1936-1938.

PUBLIC SERVICE

Citizens Council on City Planning

Director 1952 - to date.

Secretary - 1959

This is a Citizen's group interested in City Planning. Activities include a Zoning Alerting Service, development of interest in City Planning; preparing comments for City Council each year on proposals to be included in the Capital Budget; programming six public meetings a year to inform the Public on methods of City Planning; staffing and administering the Philadelphia City Planning Exhibit.

As well as the usual duties that devolve upon a "director", the nominee was a member of the Zoning Committee which submitted recommendations to the City where the Zoning Ordinance was being rewritten. He is currently a member of the Committee on the Comprehensive Plan.

Notably - At the time the Philadelphia Redevelopment Authority was writing the contract with the Redevelper for the "Old City Area" in Philadelphia, many requirements important to proper planning and design in this area were overlooked. These aspects were pointed out by Zantzinger to the Executive Board of the Citizens Council on City Planning and this group were influential in having the proper requirements included in the actual contract.

Major Advisory Committee on Penn Center - 1953-1959

In 1953 Mayor Clark appointed Zantzinger as one of two Architects on a Special Committee on Penn Center. Its duties were to develop Public support of the plan for Penn Center as originally proposed by the City Planning Commission. Whereas Developers usually are prone to disregard advance planning concepts, this Committee successfully influenced the placing of present buildings to create open spaces, the incorporation of underground service facilities and the extension of elevator service to the concourse level. The Committee was instrumental in developing the concourse concept, with its stores, restaurants, and related services, as well as proper connection to hotel and transportation facilities, the proposed future concourse and the new City Office Building.

The Committee also strongly recommended that no building be erected on the block between 15th Street and Penn Square and that it be acquired by the City - a step which is in process.

Commissioner of Radnor Township - 1948-1952

As Commissioner, Zantzinger served as Chairman of the Sewer Committee, and in this capacity developed planning for watershed sewer service serving five Townships, in whole or in part. This plan, initiated at that time, is practically complete. At the same time, this Committee was able to change sewer charges from a "fixture" basis to a "use" basis. This "pay-as-you-go" principle made it possible to remove the cost of sewer construction and service from the General Obligation Bonds of the Township.

Concurrently worked with the Committee which finally proposed revision of the outdated Zoning Ordinance.

Instituted an effective arrangement (subsequently discontinued) whereby speculative builders were persuaded to improve the appearance of their buildings by making improvements in drawings before building permits were granted. As an Architect he was able to "advise" the Township Engineer on desired improvements, and the Engineer in turn, was able to persuade the developer to correct drawings before approval.

During this period as Township Commissioner, he was able to generate considerable cooperation on the part of other Townships in working toward a uniform Building Code for all Suburban Municipalities, Townships, and Boroughs. Although the expressed desire to have the BOCA Code adopted seemed impossible at that time, the movement contributed materially to the similarities that have subsequently developed in these numerous Codes.

Trustee, Fairmount Park Art Association - 1955 to date.

This organization is empowered to provide sculpture and other aesthetic improvements in Fairmount Park. Sculpture is purchased and sited, fountains, etc. constructed, important existing sculpture night-lighted - for the enhancement of this beautiful Park. Specifically, the nominee is a member of the New Projects Committee, which recommended and carried out the installation of a statue of Walt Whitman at the approach to the Walt Whitman Bridge, conducted a competition, and acquired thru it, two fine pieces of new sculpture for the Philadelphia Zoo, and currently is working toward the acquisition of distinctive sculpture for the Azalea Garden to the west of the Philadelphia Museum of Art.

At present, a program of interest is being instituted by the nominee. Feeling that there are great possibilities in the use of plastics, an effort is on foot to establish a research program to determine to what extent plastics can be useful and permanent in executing sculpture and to what extent color can be used.

Trustee - Episcopal Hospital - 1938 to date.

Zantzinger has acted over the years as the building counselor for the Board. This has included responsibility for the maintenance of buildings, some of which are over 100 years old. In recent years he has overseen the complete rewiring system, as well as the complete renovation of the Boiler Plant, Laundry and Obstetrical Department.

United Fund - 1939 - Chairman of Zone 75, after working for two previous years as a collector. In this year the quota was exceeded.

United Fund - 1960 - Chairman Section 10 - Building Finance & industry. Quota exceeded.

Charity Ball Inc. - Member of Board 1938 - 1958
Vice President 1959 - 1961

This activity is a charitable effort to raise money for various Philadelphia Hospitals. Its success can be gauged by the fact that $42,500 was netted in 1960.

Re: C. Clark Zantzinger, Jr., A.I.A.

The Executive Committee, Philadelphia Chapter, A.I.A.

An architect is advanced to Fellowship in recognition of exceptional ability or of exceptional service. The Jury of Fellows always tries to choose wisely and with discrimination, but it is limited in precise knowledge about the nominees.

To complete Nomination, this form must be filled and returned before January 1st. Otherwise, no action will be taken at the forthcoming Jury meeting.

It is the opinion of the Jury of Fellows that a designer, however talented, should not be advanced to Fellowship if he possesses deficiencies of character which reflect discredit upon the profession; and that no architect, regardless of outstanding service, should be advanced if the buildings which he has designed are so notably inferior in architectural design as to reflect discredit upon the profession.

To help the Jury learn such aspects, which are not normally completely supplied through regular nomination procedure, fill in the lines below which in your opinion apply to C. Clark Zantzinger, Jr., A.I.A. and return this sheet in the addressed envelope provided.

1. Has he many friends who speak well of him? Yes.
 2. Do they also vouch for his accomplishments? Yes.
 3. Would his ethics be acceptable in business? Yes.
 4. What is your opinion of his character? first rate.

C. Clark Zantzinger, Jr. - Service to Institute

Gentlemen:

I have known Mr. C. Clark Zantzinger, Jr. for over five (5) years. His service and dedication to the profession and the American Institute of Architects has been outstanding. He has been consistently active in Chapter, State, and Civic Affairs.

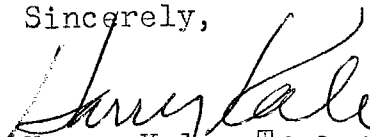

Because of his wisdom, direction and ability to make clear decisions, he has been sought out to chair many of the Chapter Committees.

As Director of the Pennsylvania Society of Architects, he has been instrumental in relating the Chapter to matters of importance at State level.

He has been particularly active in Public Service, acting in a principal role on the Citizens Council on City Planning, the Mayor's Advisory Committee on Penn Center, the Fairmount Park Art Association, and other civic and charitable organizations.

I hereby endorse the nomination of Mr. C. Clark Zantzinger, member of the Philadelphia Chapter.

Sincerely,

Harry Kale, Treasurer

Gentlemen:

It is a distinct pleasure to write you on behalf of an architect who is, like his distinguished father before him, a leader in his profession.

Clark Zantzinger has done many important things for his fellow architects, for the Pennsylvania Society of Architects, for the Philadelphia Chapter. But to recite these accomplishments, or to describe them in detail, is not enough.

It is necessary to add to such recital and description the qualities of the man himself. Clark Zantzinger is a forceful and a forthright man. He is an able - a very able and experienced man. He is an architect who upholds and emulates the high traditions of the past and works to develop them for the present and future.

Factual

It is my strong belief that he is most eligible for election to the College of Fellows; I hope that you will agree.

Sincerely yours,

Norman N. Rice

Gentlemen:

It gives me great pleasure to endorse C. Clark Zantzinger, Jr. for Fellowship in the American Institute of Architects based on his service to the Institute.

Mr. Zantzinger graduated from Yale in 1926, then took graduate work in architecture at the University of Pennsylvania, leading to Bachelor of Architecture in 1930 and Master of Architecture in 1931. After an extensive trip around the world and a period of apprenticeship in his father's office, he started practice for himself in 1935. The following year he was elected to membership in the American Institute of Architects and immediately took an active part on the Committee for Education, helping develop extension courses at the University of Pennsylvania and Drexel Institute. He was appointed a member of the Executive Committee where he personally implemented the development of the Mentor System to assist recent graduates.

In the field of Public Relations he spent many months developing a Chapter sponsored Movie to interest the general public in City Planning. This outstanding and successful venture was in great demand by Civic Groups thruout the Metropolitan area. During this period he chaired a Committee to engage an Executive Director for the Philadelphia Chapter to expand public relations.

At the beginning of World War II Mr. Zantzinger was made Chairman of an Architects Committee on Preparedness to work with the Civilian Council of Defense. To implement his effectiveness in this field he volunteered for special Government training at Fort Belvoir, Virginia, at considerable sacrifice to his own architectural practice. In August of 1942 he volunteered for active duty in the Army and served with distinction as a Major on the Staff of General Lucius Clay until the end of hostilities in 1945.

He reopened his office in 1946 and two years later became active in Chapter affairs as Chairman of the Committee on Public Relations and Chairman of a Committee on Unification of Building Codes. He was elected Director of the Philadelphia Chapter in 1952 and took an active part in the reconciliation of the Chapter and the Pennsylvania Society of Architects. During this period he was the Philadelphia representative on the Executive Committee of the State Society. At the State level he again worked effectively toward the development of better public relations and personally saw to the employment of an Executive Secretary to implement this program.

In the field of Public Service he was one of two architects serving on the Mayor's Advisory Committee; has been a Director on the Citizens Council for City Planning from 1952 to this date; and has served as Commissioner for Radnor Township at a critical period during the development of a uniform building code for four Counties bordering Philadelphia. The success of this code was in a large measure the result of his sound knowledge of good building practice.

He has been a Director of the Fairmount Park Art Association for seven years; was Vice President of the Charity Ball from 1959 to 1961; and has been Zone Chairman with the United Fund on two separate occasions.

In view of Mr. Zantzinger's outstanding record on behalf of the Institute and his many charitable and civic responsibilities, I recommend that the Jury of Fellows elect him a Fellow of the American Institute of Architects.

Very truly yours,

Gentlemen:

I am privileged and happy to recommend my friend and colleague, C. Clark Zantzinger, Jr., for your favorable consideration of his candidacy for Fellowship in The American Institute of Architects.

I have known Mr. Zantzinger for many years and have been aware of his devotion of time and effort to the affairs of The Institute at the local and state levels. His persuasive enthusiasm for good causes and constructive ideas carries with it the ability to achieve desirable results.

His record of service on committees since 1936 is impressive and by itself serves to substantiate my recommendation. Local chapter committee service follows: Education; Executive; Public Relations; City Charter; Civil Defense; Public Information; Unification of Codes; Municipal Development Work; Candidate selection for position of City Architect and A.I.A. Philadelphia Convention.

At the State level his committee service follows: Executive; Architect-Contractor-Engineer; Annual Forum and Public Relations.

In addition he has served on city and suburban area committees advisory to public officials.

I sincerely hope that the above information will be useful in your consideration of Mr. Zantzinger's candidacy.

Very truly yours,

Gentlemen:

The name of C. Clark Zantzinger has, I understand, been placed in nomination for Fellowship in the Institute. It is a pleasure to me to have been asked to write to you on his behalf.

About forty years ago, Mr. Zantzinger and I were at school together. He was a year ahead of me and went on to a different college. Although we only met occasionally for many years, I always had very pleasant memories of him.

In due course I found myself responsible for the management of this Hospital. About five years ago, it became necessary to undertake a rather complicated building operation which involved the integration of new construction with the modernization of an older building. Because of my old fondness for Mr. Zantzinger, I was delighted when a member of our Board of Directors suggested that we engage him as Architect. It was said that he was well qualified artistically and well endowed with the practical capacities necessary for this particular kind of operation; so it proved.

That particular job has long been over, but the experience was so satisfactory that our association has continued steadily. It now involves planning new structures of considerable size. I can only say that in every respect Mr. Zantzinger is capable, reliable, practical and a charming person with whom to deal. To us he seems an eminently well qualified Architect and at the same time a man and a citizen of the highest caliber. I know that he would be an addition to the finest company.

Sincerely yours,

J. Randolph Burke

Dear Mr. Bendiner:

It gives me great pleasure to learn of the nomination to a Fellowship in the American Institute of Architects of Mr. C. Clark Zantzinger, Jr.

Having known Mr. Zantzinger for over twenty years, in his capacity as an Architect and as a private individual, I believe I am well qualified to comment most favorably on his professional status and his relationships with fellow members of his profession and the building industry in general.

Because of my regard for Mr. Zantzinger it afforded me great satisfaction to nominate him for Membership in our Company some years ago knowing his reputation to be such that subsequent election was assured. In closing may I say that when our Membership Committee considered him worthy of the honor of being elected to our Company the qualities which made him eligible should also provide a similarly potent basis for his election as a Fellow of the Institute. Dear Sirs:

I have been advised that Mr. C. Clark Zantzinger, Jr., has been nominated for advancement to Fellowship in the Institute. I send this letter through his sponsor, Mr. Alfred Bendiner. I am happy that I can write a most enthusiastic endorsement.

It has been my pleasure and privilege to know Mr. Zantzinger over a period of a great many years, and I truly believe few architects have maintained higher professional standards than has he, and he has given unstintingly of his time to inspire his co-workers and co-members in the practice of architecture with exemplary zeal.

The American Institute of Architects records will show that I have not been a practicing architect since 1934, but I have maintained my membership and was honored to sit on the Executive Committee here in Philadelphia in a fairly recent term of office. Up to the time of that experience my admiration for Mr. Zantzinger was generalized, but those three years convinced me that he is a gentleman of the first order dedicated to only the best, with a high intelligence and competence. It certainly seems to me that this is the kind of stuff for Fellowship eligibility. I trust, then, that this letter of unconditioned recommendation will stand him in good stead.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Bendiner:

In reply to your letter regarding the nomination of Mr. C. Clark Zantzinger, Jr., for advancement to Fellowship in the Institute, the following comments are derivations of a rewarding period of association as a consultant to that individual.

From the beginning, it has been not only my opinion, but also that of my associates, that Mr. Zantzinger's direction and purpose of application to his profession have been such that his dedication creates the personal reality of an architect, rather than that of an image. Every effort is made by him to examine and synthesize the tangible and abstract relationships of architect, client, and program. In this, there has been the ability of establishing an order in terms that are real and attainable. The final high quality of his work speaks for itself, be it simple or complex in requirements, and each with an expression devoid of the popular vogue or design idioms.

A comment should be made regarding his concern for the younger members of the profession. There has been evidenced the understanding of their needs and the means of assisting them into a full and stimulating beginning into the field. A direction has been established that is most commendable and will likely be repeated by these individuals to others in years to follow. His relations to his fellow associates and clients are such that the presence of the social responsibilities of the profession are fully realized. His advancement would not only be an acknowledgment by the Institute of his dedication, but would also be to the public a note of the high standards of the Institute.

Respectfully yours,

Re: C. Clark Zantzinger, Jr.

Gentlemen:

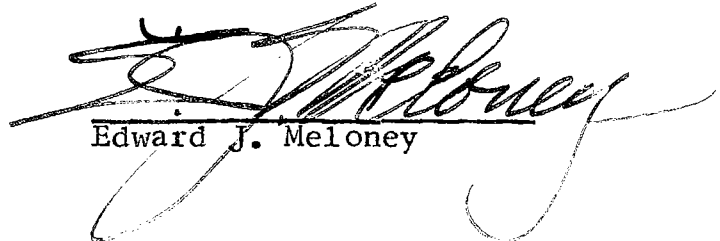

It is with considerable interest and pleasure that notice has come to me of Mr. Zantzinger's nomination for advancement to Fellowship in The Institute.

I have known Mr. Zantzinger for over thirty years from the standpoint of a mechanical sub-contractor on several of the buildings he has designed and also as a consultant or trouble shooter working with him to rectify problems that arise in the mechanical line. I have had a healthy respect for his artistic ability and his down to earth approach on the design end of his various projects whether they be institutional, industrial, church or residential. It has been a pleasure to be associated with a man whose relationship with his clients is so smooth.

The services which Mr. Zantzinger has rendered on Committees relating to his profession, and his community activities have given him an excellent insight into the limitations and requirements that govern some phases of his work.

It is indeed a pleasure to recommend him for your consideration for this advancement.

Sincerely yours,

Edward J. Meloney

Gentlemen:

I am advised that the name of C. Clark Zantzinger, Jr. has been placed in nomination for Fellowship in the Institute, and it is indeed a pleasure to me to write to you in his behalf.

I have known Mr. Zantzinger since boyhood, and I am indeed proud to count him among my closest and dearest friends. He is a gentleman of the highest caliber: courteous, knowledgeable, and attractive.

In addition to my personal relationship, I have been associated with him for many years in architectural projects. He has acted as architect for me and my family for twenty-five years, during which time he designed and supervised the construction of a good many residences and auxiliary buildings on our real estate holdings in the suburbs of Philadelphia. Also, I have worked closely with him on the Board of Managers of Episcopal Hospital, Philadelphia. For many years, he has acted as Advisor and Consultant to this large hospital on all matters pertaining to architectural design and maintenance of buildings, etc. During my tenure of office as Chairman of the Executive Committee and later President of this hospital, I leaned heavily upon him constantly, and I know that subsequent Presidents have done likewise.

So, I can only say that I consider this candidate to be a very exceptional man, both personally and professionally, and I am quite sure that he will do great credit to the Institute if elected to Fellowship.

Dear Sirs:

It has come to my attention that Mr. C. Clark Zantzinger, Jr.'s name has been placed in nomination for advancement to Fellowship in the American Institute of Architects.

The nominee of the Philadelphia Chapter is a very dear friend of mine and one whom I have known for nearly 40 years. He is an individual of high moral principles and one whose character and integrity could never be questioned. May I also add that his wife and family are most attractive.

I have seen some of the work which Mr. Zantzinger has done in the Philadelphia area, the most recent one being Sunnybrook Golf Club. I have always felt that his architectural efforts combine a great deal of imagination with the practical, with a constant weather eye on the important matter of cost. In my estimation, he is an outstanding architect with real ability. Added to this, his personality is such that his relationship with his clients is effective and extremely tactful. I have never heard any criticism of him in this respect.

Dear Mr. Bendiner:

This will acknowledge the receipt of your recent letter telling me of the nomination of Mr. C. Clark Zantzinger, Jr. for Fellowship in the American Institute of Architects.

I have known Mr. Zantzinger for many years and was also well acquainted with his father. As a member of the Art Commission of Philadelphia I have had an opportunity to observe his professional work, since a number of examples of it have been presented to that Commission for approval.

He is also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Fairmount Park Art Association, of which I am President, and I have had an opportunity in that Association to form an opinion of his artistic judgment and of his relationships with people. I have also had professional relations with his firm.

I have no hesitancy in recommending Mr. Zantzinger as an architect of high competence and taste and fully worthy of Fellowship in the American Institute of Architects.

Very truly yours,

Gentlemen:

I was pleased to learn from my old friend Mr. Alfred Bendiner that the Philadelphia Chapter of the American Institute of Architects has placed in nomination for advancement to Fellowship in the Institute my neighbor Mr. C. Clark Zantzinger, Jr.

I appreciate the opportunity afforded me to express the hope that this honor will be accorded to my neighbor Mr. Zantzinger, for whom I have the highest regard. I have known him since he was a boy, and knew his eminent father. He is a splendid citizen, a delightful companion and he has a host of friends and admirers in the Philadelphia community. As to his professional ability, I am sure you have ample evidence of its fine quality. Though I have never employed him personally, I am a vice president of the Bryn Mawr Hospital for which he has done extensive work to the great satisfaction of its Board of Directors. I have the pleasure of forwarding herewith a letter from the Managing Director of that hospital, who has worked closely with Mr. Zantzinger. Also enclosed is a letter from my brother-in-law who has worked with Mr. Zantzinger for 25 years in other matters.

If there is anything further I can do to assist your consideration of this matter, please command me.

Dear Mr. Bendiner:

It is with the greatest pleasure I write to you concerning Mr. C. Clark Zantzinger, Jr.

Mr. Zantzinger designed and supervised the construction of two houses for me and both turned out to be most pleasing to us from an artistic as well as utilitarian point of view.

The first house he built for us was some twelve years ago, and I think each year we have lived in it has increased our admiration for Mr. Zantzinger's creative ability and engineering skill.

As you point out in your letter Mr. Zantzinger as an individual is in every way, charming and entertaining. Several years ago when we used to cruise the Maine coast together he enhanced our pleasures by his capacity to observe natural beauty and to capture some of the feeling in the water colors he did. I am sure that in every way Mr. Zantzinger would do all in his power to maintain the high standards of the American Institute of Architects.
